

COLOURING THE WORLD AT YOUR FEET

Share your artwork using #BSM

This pair of Yuki geta, or snow geta, come from Hokkaido, Japan. Geta are a form of elevated sandals traditionally worn in Japan. This pair features clog-like toe covers with fur trims, which would have provided protection in chilly weather.

JAPANESE • 1910-40

@batashoemuseum | batashoemuseum.ca | 416-979-7799

COLOURING THE WORLD AT YOUR FEET

Share your artwork using #BSM

Short booties suitable for rain and snowy weather were popular in women's fashion from the 1920s onwards. Often made as overshoes, they were designed to fit over a pair of shoes you were already wearing in order to provide protection. This pair of overshoes is made of warm velvet and trimmed with rabbit fur.

CANADA • C.1940-46